Latest Quotations in the Portland Markets.

Complete Market Reports Corrected Each Day Giving the Wholesale Prices of Commodities, Farm Produce and Vegetables.

Portland, Sept. 25.—No hops have been baled in Oregon yet.

"Until such time as we have hops in the bale there is little use in quoting prices."

Wheat exporters have concluded to wait a while before transacting much business in the buying line because farmers have no desire to sell. A good deal of the crop of 1905 has already been sold at lower figures than now rule, but on the advance in prices a week ago growers concluded to wait and see if wheat would not become still more valuable.

Potatoes are still considered weak, and buyers are not making any offers. They are waiting for a shipping demand.

The onion market is controlled altogether by receipts from Walla Walla, where onions are matured earlier than here. Oregon onions will begin coming in more freely from now on.

Peaches from The Dalles and from southern Oregon are more plentiful. The prices do not change.

Gallon squash and pumpkins have advanced and are quoted at $2.60 per dozen.

Tomatoes are inclined to be scarce on account of damp weather preventing their gathering.

Good apples are scarce and prices very firm. Poor ones are all sent to consumers and older presses this season.
